

As a Flight Attendant I feel the change in FCC rules for Cell phone use on aircraft is only relaxing our country's safety and security. It has not been proven that cell phone use does not interfere with cockpit controls, to use Flight Attendants as enforcers for the rules would only take them away from security of the aircraft. If and when an emergency evacuation takes place the information that can and would save people's lives would be hindered by people making cell phone calls. I urge you to not change the cell phone rules while on aircraft for the security and safety of this country.
